White Crosses On SR 80 Questioned

Margaret Irvin
Editor's Note: Miss Irvin is a graduate of Belle Glade High School, Duquesne University, Pittsburgh and has taught school two years, here.

In a speech to the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belle Glade, Monday night, Margaret Irvin spoke out urgently for the removal of the white cross "death markers" along state road 80.

"The men who decided to put this project into effect," she said, "are to be commended for taking the responsibility of doing something about the number of deaths and accidents that occur on that road. It is good that an interest has been taken, but unfortunately, this particular action, as statistics show, will not only not serve as a deterrent to accidents on that road, but will be directly responsible for an increase."

"Most accidents occur," Miss Irvin explained, "when the driver is distracted by an argument he has had, or by an arrest, or by a cross alongside of the road that says where some motorist got killed, or by his own fears of accidents."

Miss Irvin cited five reasons why the crosses cause accidents:

1. They remind other motorists of a person who had, or was about to, be killed.
2. They distract the driver's attention from his driving on the road.
3. They get the person out of "present time," back-reliving his own real or fancied accidents, or those of friends.
4. They cause him to lose confidence in himself as a driver, and control over the drive, and his car.
5. They cause him to feel that he has no control over his car, or the road, and that he can do nothing to avoid being involved in an accident after driver might cause.

Miss Irvin gave examples in Georgia, New York State, and Arizona where these methods had been tried, were found to only increase the number of accidents, and were quietly abandoned.

She ended her speech with these questions: "Will these death crosses make us drive more carefully? Does being constantly haunted by a spectre of death improve our driving skills and confidence? Please, let us remove those crosses now, before any accidents are caused by them."

Growth of the county street improvement program and aid to home owners who may take advantage of installment payments covering drainage and paving spurred commissioners Tuesday.

The board approved a $250,000 revenue bond issue noting that the county has been successful in the past in securing financing for the removal of the white cross "death markers" along state road 80.

Chairman E. F. Van Kessel noted that such a bond issue method was far preferable to an alternative funding from ad valorem taxes. Board members stressed the fact that the bond would be repaid by those benefiting from street improvements.

County Administrator Jack Dean and Fiscal Agent Curt Goss were authorized to prepare the bond issue.

Commissioners also approved a $300 county contribution toward prizes for the U. S. Open Shark Fishing Tournament scheduled in the county August 31 through September 2.

Salvage factors questioned by the board two weeks ago have been incorporated for the time being by the county.

They also agreed to have minor parties sign legal releases from the county to be prepared by the county attorneys office.

3-day tournament which should help to reduce the existing danger from sharks along the beach. Fishing pressure is a proven way to combat inshore sharks, he informed the board.

In addition to shark eradication the tourney will serve to help medical scientists who plan to be on hand, said Berman, explaining that no shark has been found to have cancer or a tumor.

Gene Potter, vice mayor of West Palm Beach attended the regular meeting to ask commissioners to approve $400,000 toward initial development of a public park in the south end of the city.

Board member Dan Gaynor explained to Potter that the county budget is tight and the commission has held up action on other parts in the county pending a comprehensive report on recreational needs from the area planning board. Commissioners expressed concern and interest in the West Palm Beach park, first broached in 1965, and did not close the door on Potter's plan, noting it would be considered during budget meetings.

Van Kessel said that the county does not make contributions toward municipal parks on any major scale, that simply spending up to $100 on shell rock or similar aids.

In other business, bids were received for several major projects. Murphy Construction Co. was apparent low bidder at $26,524 to construct a 47 foot concrete bridge on Hypokote Road.

Crabtree Construction Co., at $107,450 was apparent low for construction of a parking lot at Phil Foster Park.

Rubin Construction Co., Florida, was apparent low bidder at $53,951 for the alternate bid, calling for culverts, at $53,951.

Hardins also was the apparent low bidder on a one mile road, first broached in 1965, and did not close the door on Potter's plan, noting it would be considered during budget meetings.

Registration Shows Voter Apathy—Lack Of Interest

City of Belle Glade
Belle Glade, Florida

August 14, 1968

TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLE GLADE:
I need help!

Can you help me understand why 375 names are being purged from the City of Belle Glade registration books? This is required to eliminate dead weight. Some are deceased, some have moved out of town but 90% of this number failed to exercise the privilege of voting for the past 3-5 years.

Can you help me understand why the City registration books carry 1,991 names of Belle Glade citizens living within the corporate limits and the City registration books carry 7,112? Can you help me understand why these 1,975 people are interested in their country and not their City?

Can you help me understand why $4 of the eligible voters elect City officials?

Can you help me understand why over a million dollar business (City of Belle Glade) is ignored by its stockholders (voters)?

Can you help me understand why the largest City on Lake Okechobee with the greatest potential is enveloped in a state of apathy as to municipal elections?

Can you help me understand why one of the dearest free freedoms of man in democratic government is the voting franchise? Can you help me understand why so many of us fail to exercise that franchise?

Ask each person you talk to who is 21 years or older and has been a citizen of Belle Glade for one year if he is registered to vote with the County and County.

Help me to understand!

Sincerely yours,

Walter Curry, Jr., Mayor
Superintendent of Registration
City of Belle Glade

Lack of interest is what Vera C. Jones, City Clerk, classified as the prime reason for voter apathy toward City elections. This is why "the County has 4,000 registered voters," from Belle Glade, and the City only has 2,000," she said.

Registration at the Post Office has been "fair," Mr. Jones said, with both the City and the County averaging about 25 registrations each per day.

"We're still trying to make up for the 375 names we had to purge from the books," she said. Names that were purged were of persons who either moved from the city, died, or had not voted in the last two elections.

Mrs. Jones said many of the names were those who had not voted in the past two elections.

Many ideas to get eligible voters to register have been tried in the past, Mrs. Jones said, but door to door registration has even been considered, but if the City does that "they (the voters) would probably want to carry the voting machine door to door."

In order to be eligible to vote in the City of Belle Glade a person must be 21 years of age, a resident of Belle Glade for at least one year. The City books opened August 1 at the Post Office and the City Hall. The registration table at the Post Office will close August 15, but the City Hall will remain open until August 30.

Mrs. Jones says she hopes for quite a few last minute registrations.

Panokee Council Accepts Insurance Boost - Discuss Low Income Housing

A premium hike of $2870 for an insurance policy covering the City of Belle Glade from "Bodily Injury to Public Endowment" clause was accepted when the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

The most marked increase was for "Bodily Injury to Public Endowment" which jumped from $245 last year to $2750 this year, although the basic coverage premium increased from $735 to $1100.

London, the insurance firm with which the city has the insurance, said the basic rates resulted mainly because of "lawlessness, riots, and lack of respect for life and order," making last year's rates for the same coverage "unprofitable" for the insurance company. The minimum charge for basic and bodily injury insurance is based on the number of regular police officers and auxiliary police officers the city employs, said Carpenter. The new rates for the basic policy are $80 per police officer and $30 per auxiliary officer. The "Bodily Injury" coverage costs $200 per police officer and $75 per auxiliary officer, he reported.

Councilman George Tucker said it is "things like this" that cost "us" taxpayers money, after he complained the increase to be about 1/3 mill.

Carpenter pointed out that if the City does not carry the insurance that covers bodily injury to the public, it can be used in the case of accidental injury to innocent bystanders. The "Bodily Injury" clause covers accidents involving the City's property. The City of Belle Glade is a member of the Panokee Council, which is a group of cities in the area that share insurance costs.

The representative from FFA said that his company was anxious to begin the project so that the people of Panokee in the lower income bracket which is from $5,000 to $6,000 per year, can own their own homes.

In other business the Council accepted the bid from Fairchild Products Corporation for supplying a sewer cleaning machine, at $2555.63.

dental injury to bystanders, as assault and battery, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution, he said.

A representative from Farmers Home Administration attended the Council meeting to discuss a proposed resolution of the City to, "in principle," approve the FHA's development of the area on State Market Road for a low cost housing project.

The proposed project will be composed of two, three, and four bedroom homes on 70 x 100 lots, totaling 150 homes. The three bedroom homes will cost $9,000 and the four bedroom homes will cost $10,000. All homes are equipped with refrigerator and stove. The mortgage will be for 40 years at an interest rate of 3%.

Initially, and also average monthly payment of $65 to $75 are taxes, insurance, mortgage payments, and landscaping around the homes. Down payments, the representative said, should not exceed $200. There will also be a community facilities building which will have laundry facilities.

SANGRASS SAGAS

A GATOR MIGHT MAKE YOU HURT YOURSELF

This is another in a series of pioneer adventures as told by Lawrence E. Will, Glades historian and pioneer businessman in Belle Glade.

In my ramblings to and from this state and travelling up and down in it while searching out old settlers of Okechobee, I've met with some right interesting people. I'll have you know, I reckon that one of the most outstanding of these was Mrs. Lula Curry Russell over Punta Gorda way, and also her ex-gator hunting son Walter Curry, and her daughter Albert.

White Jones, the first white child born on Okechobee Lake. Lula was probably one of the first women to live here on the lake. When I visited her she was 84 years of age and only a big as a minute, a minute-and-a-half, or two minutes, but she still had plenty of zip. Lula told me that she had been born at Webster (that's Kennesawville to you) and that at the age of sixteen she had married William Jones.

Curry. They had done down to the Caloosahatchee country, and the following year, in 1897 this was, William's brother, Luke, William Strickland, and Lula had rowed their boat from LaBelle to "Kissimmee" on Okechobee Lake, which would make them among the first to live out here. She says that during those first years she was more like to get an Indian than a white person, and at one time her nearest neighbor was twelve miles away. Her first baby was born on the lake but it died at birth. However her sixth one, Albertie, was born in 1907 near the mouth of Taylor Creek, and Lula says that she was the first child born on the lake, and which survived.

Lula wrote an account of her early days, right interesting reading, especially the part where they were caught on Big Bear Beach in the Three Day Hurricane in 1910. They were caught on the beach, but were saved by a right lucky circumstance, but their lives were lost. Lula and her family hunted and fished on the lake and the river and they were crying years. Catfishing because the lake's biggest business, jumped from a million dollars in the late 1920s to the very first catfish from the lake were caught and shipped by Will Curry and William Strickland in August 1900.

Walter Curry told of a hunting trip with his father on December 1900, where Belle Glade is today. Walter had just killed a large alligator, but his father had been shot once, and was bleeding from the head. Walter then caught a baby gator which was swimming. He tried to make it swim, but it wouldn't. Walter then caught a baby gator which was swimming. He tried to make it swim, but it wouldn't.

Personal Appearance and Dress Policy

The Palm Beach County School Board, July 29, adopted an amended version of its 1966 policy on personal appearance and dress regulations.

The amended policy was prepared by a committee representing elementary, junior and senior high school principals, and recommended to the Board by Superintendent Robert W. Fulton.

General Application To All Schools Including Juniors and Faculty

1. The enlarged concept of public school responsibilities dictates that the schools teach many things in addition to the general, ly accepted subject matter curriculum.

2. The majority of students conform to acceptable standards of dress, but all pupils in all schools shall give attention to their personal appearance. Such matters determine the climate for learning, and all have a profound effect on the mental attitude of the educational situation.

Any style or manner of dress that tends to draw undue attention to an individual to such extent that it becomes a classroom distraction is prohibited. Boys and girls are to dress in good taste at all times.

3. Since it is not possible to predict styles or fads, it is the responsibility of the administrators in the individual schools to deal with problems of personal appearance which violate the above standards.

For Secondary School Application

4. Girls will wear dresses or skirts, culottes, pant dresses of reasonable length as determined by the school staff. Girls will not wear slacks, jeans, shorts, pedal pushers, dresses which are low-cut in back or front, dresses with spaghetti straps, tight blouses, tight skirts or tight dresses, knee-high boots, hair curlers, or excessive make-up.

Boys must wear belts at the waistline except in the case of trousers designed to be worn without belts. Shirts (boys' and girls') shall be tucked in. However, such shirts as a button with a ribbed bottom or similar skirts designed to be worn at the natural waistline are acceptable. All shirts shall be buttoned to a refined neck level. Jeans may be worn if they are clean and neat but no shorts. Shorts or any type of trousers that are not considered the conventional type are not to be worn. Boys must wear socks at all times.

5. Boys and girls are to wear shoes at all times. No boots, no shoes with cleats, exposed nails or other abrasive materials are to be worn. Loosely fitted beachwear (beachies, thongs, etc.) will not be worn at school. Sandal types shoes will be constructed to provide a neat and secure fitting. Boys are to come to school with clean shaves. Moustaches or beards are prohibited. Hair cuts and hair styles (boys' and girls') shall not be extreme or ridiculous.

6. Intentional disfigurement of the skin, objectionable markings, objectionable insignia on skin or clothing will not be permitted.

7. A student missing any class time in order to conform to the School Board policy in the matter of personal appearance will receive an unexcused absence for the time he is away from class.

Sawgrass Sagas

up the bank before it died. Johnnie got out of that scrape right away, but he told of another hunter who wasn't so lucky. A man was standing in a grassy pond, scooping up baby gators and tossing them to his partner who was taking them. Now this was a tolerably risky job if the man was around, for the hunter was guarding her young every day for the first year or two. This old mama gator went up from the bottom of the pond and clamped down on the hunter's fingers. Too scared to move, the man froze motionless as Lou's wife. Presently the gator slowly released its pressure, slithering for to get a better hold. The hunter snatched his hand away, but those sharp pointed teeth ripped his fingers almost to the bone. At that, I reckon that he got off easy, for saw gators weren't always too egghead friendly.

Tony Stein told of one time when he was scared, but he felt like laughing too. While down the Miami Canal Tony's partner was on the opposite bank from him, ramming his hooked pole into a gator cave at the water's edge. The gator was home but he wouldn't budge, so the hunter reached among the elders on the bank above his head, to his rifle. Just then the scaly back, all ten feet of him, poked his head between the hunter's spraddled legs to survey the situation. The boy did his damndest to scramble up the bank, but it was too steep, and the muck crumbled away in his hands. Tony had his carbine aimed, but he didn't dare to fire for fear of hitting his buddy. He says there was one mighty fancy scrambling being done, until the gator, disgusted with such gaudy, on plunged into the water and scooped under some floating hyacinths.

Those old time gator hunters seem to have been tolerable tough birds, even moccasins and black widows couldn't kill them. There was Henry Platt, back in 1909, who was at a gator hole somewhere south of Ritta (Lake Harbor). This pond had fairly hard bottom, except for soft mud in the middle, but to the middle he wanted to go. Just as he stepped into a floating tussock, a cotton moccasin bit him on the ankle. His partner helped him to get back to camp, but he had no medicine, not even a drink of shoe oil. Platt used the only thing he had, a poultice of wet chewed tobacco. His leg swelled and he got most powerful sick, but after two or three days the swelling went down and he finally got well again.

Tobacco seems to have been right potent medicine. That's what Rollie Dyess used that time when he was hunting alone and a black widow spider stung him between the shoulder blades. He was mighty sick for about three days, but after that he went back to hunting scaly backs.

"A different kind of accident happened during my first winter at Okechobee. One of our men, a Canadian named Muldoon, as he headed for town at about dusk, drank a few miles down the canal a frantic half heard from the west grown bank of the canal. Stretched out there was a gator, and he was heard to be hunting alone, and while jumping across a log he had ruptured himself. He had crawled to the canal, a distance, he estimated, of two or three miles, and then had waded for hours for a boat to pass. Capt. Felix Forbes, Joe and another passenger, took the man aboard and managed to get his hernia back in place, and then proceeded to Ft. Lauderdale.

I recollect a couple of tales of hunters who didn't fare so well, and both of these hunters were Seminoles. Back in the time when lake catfish were being run to the Caloosahatchee to Ft. Myers. Med Towell's camp near Sand Cut, one night three Indians arrived. One was Louis Tucker, who often stopped at my camp at Okechobee. With him were his brothers Billy and Charlie, and Charlie was sick (plenty). At 3 A. M. they got aboard the fish runboat for the day long trip to town. On 1 A. M. Med hunted up a doctor who said that Charlie had appendicitis, but there was nothing he could do to help him. So they continued to Ft. Myers, and he declared that the appendix had probably burst, still he'd operate in the morning. But he didn't get to Ft. Myers, for he had been hit by a doctor who had been pushed to look like a dead man.

And then there was young Suranah Okechobee. With his wife he had poked his in-between from Ft. Lauderdale to the neighborhood of present Anytown, but he had been sawing him. He had accidentally shot himself and bled to death. His widowed third had poked back to town, about 22 miles, and notified Tony Tommie (Atone-wee), who was the only Seminole who had any schooling, and who acted as a go-between for the Indians and the whites. Tony also was one of the first Seminoles to wear pants and shoes, though he still wore his striped shirt. He got a deputy sheriff, and Cap Garlin, the city duck master, who had a launch. The woman guided them to where Okechobee's body lay, then squatted down to strip off all her rings and beads, and pull her hair down over her face. Tony was about to walk up to the body, but Okechobee's dog growled and snarled as if to eat him up. Tony backed off and studied for a time. Then he heaved up those pants and shoes. Now he looked and smelled more like a decent white man than a Seminole, and let him come ahead!

Beach International Airport went to Belvedere Construction Co. at a cost of $53,621.

A tentative budget of $37,726,286, previously reported, was received official of the board from comptroller Paul DeLoe. Commissioners earlier indicated paving was required at further budget meetings.

The Board passed a resolution of the county commission. E. D. (Bud) Calhoun, who rescued a boy from drowning near station No. 5 in the Glades, approved paving of four streets in Florida Gardens next year, cancelled month-to-month leases with Palm Beach aviation and baseball school at Palm Beach International Airport and authorized a sign for $8.80 to vary speeds near Lion Country Safari - 45 mph while attraction is open and higher when closed.

Senator Smathers' Selected As "Favorite Son"

By H. B. Manning

At the regular monthly meeting of the Palm Beach County Democratic Executive Committee meeting held in the City Center last night, the City of Belle Glade, a resolution was passed requiring this District's delegates support of Senator George Smathers as Florida's favorite son candidate on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, starting August 26th.

The Committee also voted to support the complete release of the delegates to support the candidate of their choice on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention, in effect, indicates the opposition of Palm Beach delegates to the United States proposal, advocated by some Democratic leaders from the State Committee.

Mrs. Betty Allen, acting County Chairman, received recognition from the State Committee as the only woman Chairman in the state by her appointment as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, representing the 9th Congressional District.

Other delegates from this District include Anne Bohannon, Phil O'Connell, H. Loy Anderson, Jr. and Fred O. "Bud" Dickinson.

hood of present Anytown, but he had been sawing him. He had accidentally shot himself and bled to death. His widowed third had poked back to town, about 22 miles, and notified Tony Tommie (Atone-wee), who was the only Seminole who had any schooling, and who acted as a go-between for the Indians and the whites. Tony also was one of the first Seminoles to wear pants and shoes, though he still wore his striped shirt. He got a deputy sheriff, and Cap Garlin, the city duck master, who had a launch. The woman guided them to where Okechobee's body lay, then squatted down to strip off all her rings and beads, and pull her hair down over her face. Tony was about to walk up to the body, but Okechobee's dog growled and snarled as if to eat him up. Tony backed off and studied for a time. Then he heaved up those pants and shoes. Now he looked and smelled more like a decent white man than a Seminole, and let him come ahead!

First Church Of Christ Scientist

"The Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." These words from Psalms are the Golden Rule of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled "Soul." The Lesson-Sermon is the same in all Christian Science churches throughout the world.

One of the related passages to be read from the denominational textbook is the following: "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifest through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, set the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation. Jesus healed sickness and sin by the same metaphysical process" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

THE LESSON OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Whatever the immediate outcome of the Czechoslovakian situation, it should be clear from a reading of recent news that Communism has not changed its character. Hopefully, American "liberals" who have been saying that the Russia of today is vastly different from the Russia of Stalinist times will acknowledge to themselves and to others that they were wrong.

A few years ago Walt Whitman Rostow, then head of the State Department Policy Planning Council and now a top White House adviser, was the author of the thesis that Communism is "melting."

The Czechs, however, have discovered that there is nothing melting about the thinking or actions of the Soviet Union. As soon as the Soviets saw that their power position in Czechoslovakia was even slightly threatened, they began to display their military muscle. They demanded that the Czechs fall into line.

One of the per phrases of recent years has been "politics as usual," meaning a variety of centers. The "liberals" vowed that Communism no longer has a single center. Moscow, but is decentralized and developed in a variety of independent ways.

From the Czech situation, however, we can see that the Russians hold that they are the one and only source of policy for the Communist world. They demand that their Central European satellites toe the mark and respect the authority of Communism in the Soviet Union.

The end result of these developments on the international scene is that Communism can be viewed as having the same old face. It is still an armed doctrine representing the Soviet dictatorship and openly opposed to the slightest breath of personal or economic freedom.

It is instructive that the Czech situation should develop in this period before the American presidential election. The future of the cold war is still the chief issue facing the American people. If the U.S. fails to actively strive for victory in the cold war, it will continue to lose ground in the worldwide conflict between capitalism and Communism.

A new generation of American has grown up with no memory of the Communist threat of tyranny and betrayal. Young Americans in their twenties aren't old enough to remember the soft-Communist outlook of the Roosevelt New Deal, the giveaway of land lease supplies to the USSR, the surrender of Eastern Europe to the Russians at the end of World War II.

These young Americans don't have personal recollections of the Soviet spy cases which show that the Russians built their first atomic weapons on the basis of information stolen from the U.S. or supplied by traitors.

They don't recall the case of Alger Hiss, the high-ranking State Department official who served as a Soviet agent.

Older Americans need to help educate younger Americans and explain to them how the interests of the U.S. were sacrificed by disloyal elements and appeasement.

The record will show that America's "liberals" have been consistently wrong about Communism for 20 years. They have laughed at anti-Communism, saying they "see Reds under every bush."

Meanwhile, the Soviets have swept on from success to success, capturing Cuba, penetrating Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. The "liberals" have been determined to see Communism as containing reforming elements, whereas Communism is as brutal and as ruthless as ever.

The United States is in danger today because "liberals" have guided American foreign policy. It is imperative that there be a change in leadership in Washington, in foreign policy thinking as well as in the handling of domestic issues, which also stems from Communist agents.

America hasn't much time to act a new, vigorous posture toward the Communists if they are to avoid the fate of Poland.

The people need to act in 1968.

Uncle Dan from Doolie

Dear Mister Editor:

This was the time of summer when everybody out our way was trying to find a cool spot. The fellers was sitting around trying not to work up a sweat at the country store Saturday night and Bug Hookum reported he was ready for winter on account of he always had more energy when it was cold.

Ed Doolie said he had never saw Bug use no energy so he couldn't figure what he wanted with it. Anyhow, Ed said, he recalled Bug never waster no time on whatever kind of wealth he was having at the time.

Clem Webster allowed a how that what is wrong with the human race, always wanting what they ain't got. He said them fellers sitting in air conditioned offices was probablie wishing they was on some beach basking their carcas to a crisp.

Zeke Grubb said he would like to be on some beach, but he said he would be setting in the shade watching the parade. He reported he had saw where on some beaches the gals ain't putting on them bikini swimming suits this summer, they was painting 'em on. Wimmen was wearing as near nothing as they can to stay out of jail, and the men folks was keeping their eyes on the situation, was Zeke's words.

The fellers at the store, Mister Editor, was past the romancing age, but they was still in the looking and talking age. I reckon even Zeke's preacher would forgive 'em for discussing these matters off the record and where their old lady couldn't hear it.

The feller that runs the store butted in to say he got a awful lot of them two-seated, low to the ground cars. He said when she come in the store the biggest thing she was wearing was her sunglasses. Her outfit didn't have no back at all, and not much more in front and said the worktopper, her skirt stopped about where skirts used to start when she was a boy. He said he ask her if she could help her and she said, "No may I just look?"

Josh Chidolupher said he had to put in a good word for the wimmen, that they wasn't no worse than the men claimed he had saw a piece in the papers where this big league ballplayer keeps a car of hat spins in his locker.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't take no part in the discussion. I figger wimmen had ought to be free to wear what they want. At least in summer when they ain't wearing much more than tell the gals from the boys. And you'll have to admit that ain't gitting easy no more.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Too Late to Classify

By Russell Kay

The "big company" image most of us have of operating in the Southeast, with plans for a single decade 60-Minute System, Inc., parent company of 60-Minute Cleaners has grown from a single "package" dry cleaning plant into one of the largest franchise operations in the Southeast, with plans for early expansion to other sections of the country.

The company was founded by energetic John L. Hopwood, Jr., 32 year old innovator whose idea was to employ automation in providing customers with a convenient, simple and speedy dry cleaning service. Every step was designed to provide a maximum return at minimum cost while avoiding the problems confronting massive cleaning plants, such as labor and transportation.

The concept of package plant and design caught on quickly in Melbourne, so Hopwood decided to expand. Each new plant was refined and streamlined, even to the point of providing direct facilities.

By the time 60-Minute System had grown to a 25 store chain the company found itself suffering from management growth. Hopwood felt that there was no substitute for ownership when it comes to stimulating interest and attitude. This led to franchising.

A year long study was conducted before switching to the franchise system. Seventy stores were operating when the switch was made. To give you an idea how successful the franchise system proved in the past 18 months, it has developed into an operation of more than 125 units, with plants in Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Virginia.

The parent company now employs 350 people and has its headquarters in Melbourne and plans call for the opening of new territory in the north and west.

"In franchising," said Hopwood, "We are able to blend pride and desire of ownership, the parent company's experience and a combination of the two, better customer service."

The parent company provides three weeks of professional training, centralized computer accounting, supervision to maintain high standard operation, advertising promotion, and shares the company image of an outstanding reputation.

THE G.O.P. PLATFORM

One of the functions of party conventions is the adoption of a platform. To many these documents are largely a game of politics, in which something is promised to as many groups, segments and blocs as possible, in the hope of winning votes. To others, however, a platform is a guiding policy statement of the conventions and party to be observed and followed by a Republican President and Congress, if elected.

The platforms of the major parties are thus significant documents, more important than detractors would indicate and not fully binding on a President or Congress, but a guide to the extent of the party's progress. Viewed with this background in mind, the recently-adopted Republican platform seems an appealing one in most areas.

Admittedly, it is general. On the two greatest issues of the moment it is moderate. It does not call for intensification of the war in Vietnam but calls for shifting more of the burden to other nations and for a fair settlement. On the issue of crime and law and order, it calls for stern action against crime and disorder in the streets but also suggests efforts to eliminate the causes of crime and disorders.

While the platform calls for tax credits to corporations aiding the fight on poverty and related welfare eligibility requirements for impoverished Americans it does not advocate a guaranteed income. It also includes a call for a reorganized farm program, an end to federally-backed strike settlements which are inflationary, economy in government, free trade among nations, support of Israel, tax credits to those burdened with cost of higher education and opposition to the prohibition of China into the U.S.

The platform — so largely the work of Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois — is a triumph for moderates and a defeat for extremists on both ends of the spectrum and would appear to have national appeal.

Florida Land Rush

On a recent trip to the West Coast (of Florida) we saw several billboards proclaiming, "This is Wallace Country," maybe a comeback from a popular cliché or more recently, Robert King High's bid for the governorship. We hate to disagree with your signs, Mr. Wallace, but this is "everybody's country" . . . so on that!

Letter to the Editor

Editor:

By all journalistic standards any column which is written by the first person singular should be by-lined. Yet perhaps it is better that "Too Late to Classify" of August 8 is not by-lined since the author of the article not only shows a lack of ability but also shows evidence of strong anti-democratic tendencies when he states that those who do not agree with his opposition to gun control legislation are "generally imbalanced, uncivilized and just plain nuts." Tactics such as these not only detract from the opinions expressed in the column but show bigotry and extremism on the part of the author.

Let's take a look at the issue of gun control legislation. One argument frequently used against registration of both guns and their owners, a ban on interstate sale of guns, and a ban on licensing of the inane, juveniles, and those who have guns they will be tempted to give to the unsavory element of the human life. Since the inconvenience to the legitimate gun users would be small I can see no reason for him to object to this legislation since many lives may be saved by strong gun control legislation.

Zadik Shapiro, Editor's Note: The Herald applauds for leaving the name Russell Kay, well-known vigilante columnist, who has been writing under the banner "Too Late to Classify" for the Herald for many years.

My only suggestion to Mr. Shapiro is to go back and read the column once more: "People kill people," said his wife, "and actually what we all about. Registration of all vehicles and drivers did not prevent the registration of all fleeing arms will."

Most of us, I am sure, know the difference between right and wrong, whether we practice the right more often or vice-versa. Perhaps, instead of registering our firearms, we should register our hands, each with a permanent tattoo. Then when your fingerprints are found on a murder weapon your hand could be removed.

This may be the answer to preventing convicted murderers from returning to society after a prison term to kill again, at least not with the same hand.

First Church Of Christ Scientist

"The Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." These words from Psalms are the Golden text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled "Soul." The Lesson-Sermon is the same in all Christian Science churches throughout the world.

One of the related passages to be read from the denominational textbook is the following: "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation. Jesus healed sickness and sin by one and the same metaphysical process" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilbanks, 1809 W. Lake Rd., recently returned from a two week business and vacation trip to Springfield, Illinois and vicinity.

County Superintendent: A Clarification

By Geoffrey Birth, Director Publications, Research and Information County Board of Public Instruction

Mr. Robert W. Fulton, as the County Superintendent and remains so until midnight, August 31, 1968. Mr. Fulton expects to be absent from his office through out August on accrued annual leave.

Between now and midnight, August 31, 1968, Mr. Lloyd F. Early — a member of the county administrative staff in the title of Liaison Superintendent (appointed by the Board of Public Instruction) — has been placed in charge by Superintendent Fulton.

During August, Mr. Early, by delegation of Superintendent Fulton, will be acting for Mr. Fulton in the capacity of a Superintendent except in such matters as are legally restricted solely to the Superintendent.

Superintendent Fulton has resigned effective September 1, 1968. His term of office would not have expired until midnight, January 6, 1969. Therefore, Governing Kirk was placed with the responsibility of filling the upcoming vacancy.

The Governor has now appointed Mr. Early as the County Superintendent, effective September 1, 1968, to fill the unexpired term of Superintendent Fulton, which ends January 6, 1969.

During the interim period August 1-31, 1968, Mr. Early can be given the courtesy title of Acting Superintendent.

It is hoped this statement will help news media representatives and others from erroneously naming Mr. Early "Acting Superintendent" after September 1. He will NOT be "Acting Superintendent" but THE Superintendent.

Vietnam Soldier Awarded Honor Medal—Fishing Trip, Too

Leaping snook attempts to throw hook but SFC Richard A. Kemp holds on for dear life at left. Kemp's son, 7-year-old Mike, watches in wonder at right as Capt. Dick Kemp prepares to boat the big fish during recent excursion in waters off Cape Coral. Kemp wrote a letter to Mike while serving in Vietnam, explaining why he couldn't be home but promised to take Mike fishing when he returned to the United States. Garcia Corp., fishing tackle manufacturer, made trip to Cape Coral for Kemp family a reality. (Gulf American News Bureau Photo)

CAPE CORAL, Fla. — Freedom isn't free. SFC Richard A. Kemp wrote from Vietnam to his 7-year-old son, Mike, who wanted to know why his father couldn't be home with him.

We have to pay a price, he wrote, and the price right now for you and me and your mother and sister is the separation of the family.

Kemp also reiterated a promise that he'd take Mike fishing when he returned home.

The letter won the Columbus, Ga., soldier a George Washington Honor Medal from the American Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. It also prompted a response from former President Eisenhower and an invitation from Garcia Corp., the fishing tackle manufacturer, for a week's fishing and vacationing at Cape Coral, Fla.

And fish they did.

When the Kemps flew into Cape Coral, the Garcia people were on hand to present Mike and his parents Garcia-Mitchell rods and reels in a brief ceremony in the Golden of the Patriots — which also has won a Freedoms Foundation award.

Next morning they were out early in Capt. Dick Kemp's "Eelwynd," a charter boat, casting for snook off the famed shelling island of Sanibel. It was obvious Kemp had handled a spinning rod before. Mike caught on quick.

Capt. George Underhill took them farther out into the the next day aboard his "Le Ray," looking for groupers in a "Ray" of water and then about 60 feet off the famed Garcia Grants, a Spanish-style 13-million outdoorman's center for the family near Naples, Fla. for a weekend of fishing in the Ten Thousand Islands.

"Mike's tickled to death with the fishing," Kemp said when they flew back to Cape Coral. "We've had a lot of fish and quite a variety."

Mike had hauled in some good-size groupers and caught his first snook, one of the best food fishes in the world. In all, the Kemps wound up with redfish, snook, mangrove, snapper, sea trout, mackerel and 82

Stay Alive Don't Tailgate!

DON'T RAM THE REAR!

Tailgating — following too closely the car ahead of you — is a frequent cause for rear-end collisions that often spell tragic accidents on our congested, high-speed highways.

What makes this type of accident so senseless is that experts say it is so easily prevented.

To avoid rear-end collisions, the American Insurance Association suggests this simple driving rule:

A safe following distance is a car length for each 10 miles an hour you are driving. If you are traveling 40 miles an hour, for example, 72 feet would be a reasonable following distance.

With nearly 17 million traffic mishaps reported in the United States last year, that resulted in 53,000 fatalities, one should not drive too carelessly, the Association states.

Blue History

Blue first came to America on a ship from Madagascar which landed in Charleston, S.C. in 1619. In appreciation for the hospitality he received, the captain presented the settlers with a bag of rice.

last week to try their new tackle in Georgia's fresh-water streams.

And with only 21 months left before he's eligible to retire, Kemp was hoping he'd be able to spend it at Fort Benning, Ga., and not be separated from the family again.

Reduction In School Lunch Prices Effective Here This Year

West Palm Beach — School lunch prices in Palm Beach County schools will be reduced by two cents this school year, for students in grades three through six, it is announced by School Superintendent Lloyd E. Early. The price of lunches for students in other grades will remain unchanged.

Mr. Early said the new prices, effective immediately at the schools reopen August 28, will be:

35 cents for students in grades 1 and 2;

40 cents for those in grades 3 through 6;

45 cents for the remainder in grades 7 through 12.

These new prices compare with last year's 35c, 42c and 45c respectively.

Mrs. Jane Lansing, director of School Food Services, lists six major causes for improved and more economical operations in the county's school lunch program:

1. Increase in production per hour.

2. Time-motion improvement through use of new types of equipment.

3. Improved buying practices and direct contact with the brokers for obtaining many products.

4. Centralization of food preparation areas (using the kitchen and cafeteria staffs at selected schools for the production of the meals and then distributing them to neighboring schools in special containers. This is called "satellizing").

5. Additions to staff which afforded closer supervision of operational procedures, and

6. In-service training programs.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR 1968-1969

In addition to the lowered lunch prices, other department recommendations authorized by the Board are:

1. Centralize two areas to include five or more schools with one school preparing breads and baking desserts, one school preparing meats, vegetables, salads and non-baked desserts, and one bookkeeper for the entire county. Reincorporate into the educational curriculum the nutritional aspects of School Food Service, as programmed in accordance with the pupil development levels and needs.

Census Bureau To Survey Smoking Habits

Census Bureau interviewers will conduct a survey here concerning the smoking habits of the population during the week of August 19. Director Thomas W. Whitaker of the Census Bureau's Atlanta office in Atlanta announced the survey.

Interviewers will ask about people's past smoking habits as well as present habits in order to discover whether there have been significant changes over the past year.

Interviews conducted locally are part of the third annual survey of smoking habits taken among a representative sample of the nation's population to provide statistical data for the U.S. Public Health Service.

The question on smoking will be asked during the Bureau's monthly labor force inquiries.

Questions about jobs are designed to provide data for use by the U.S. Department of Labor in determining current national employment and unemployment figures.

The identity of households in the survey throughout the U.S. is confidential, and the information obtained will be used only for statistical purposes.

Pharmers

A total of 10,000 vessels were engaged in commercial fishing when the Bureau of the Census conducted the 1968 Census of Commercial Fisheries. Of the total, 6,000 were 30 to 59 feet long, and only 190 exceeded 120 feet.

Members of the A.J.B.C. Sugar Lanes Bantams and Vinegar Bend Juniors bowl each Saturday at 1:00 p.m. under direction of Mr. N. B. Willis, Coach. New members are welcome and teams will be forming for the regular winter season. Averages or experience are not important, as sportsmanship and interest are all that is necessary, and instructions will be given by personnel at the lanes. New rates are presently in effect for the younger bowlers of the area. Planned activities will be inter-city tournaments between Fort Myers and Belle Glade A.J.B.C. bowlers, and other cities in the area. For information, call the lanes, or stop by any time.

Farmers P.C.A. Ranks Tenth In Nation

Farmers Production Credit Association of Miami ranks tenth among the 459 P.C.A.s in the nation in capital stock owned by members, according to Chas. B. Long, Jr., general manager.

Mr. Long, citing figures furnished by the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, said that as of December 31, 1967, capital stock owned by members totaled $2,232,815.

The Association serves farmers, growers and ranchers with nearly $12 million in operating and capital investment credit on an intermediate term basis in the counties of Broward, Collier, Dade, Indian River, Martin, Monroe, Okeechobee, Palm Beach and St. Lucie.

The Association also maintains full time branch offices in Belle Glade, Immokalee, Okeechobee and Vero Beach.

Farmers PCA is one of 64 in the Third Farm Credit District comprising Florida, Georgia and the two Carolinas. Leadership, supervision and loan funds for these associations are provided by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, South Carolina.

Harry B. Matthews of Ocala is President of the Association and George H. Wedgworth of Belle Glade is Vice President.

Other members of the Board of Directors are: Jefferson Davis of Homestead, Walter Peterson of Goulds, and C. R. Sexton of Vero Beach.

Mobile Homes Highest In Florida

It should come as no surprise to the Floridians that their home state leads the nation in trailer home population.

Actually, according to a report by Dr. John M. Webb in the recent issue of Florida Planning & Development, Florida is the nation's capital stock owned by members, according to Chas. B. Long, Jr., general manager.

Mr. Long, citing figures furnished by the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, said that as of December 31, 1967, capital stock owned by members totaled $2,232,815.

The State Board of Health notes that there are several devices which may be used to protect children riding in cars.

When a child is not restrained, he may be thrown from the car onto the ground or pavement during a crash or against the car's windshield or other interior surface. If a mother is holding an infant in her arms while riding in the front seat, she may crush the child against the instrument panel during an accident. An estimated 2,000 children die in automobile accidents each year. Suitable restraints would have saved the lives of many of these children.

If a car seat is used for a young child, the State Board of Health recommends that it be securely attached to the car's framework or to a seat belt that is anchored to the car's structure. A seat that merely hooks over the front seat, and is not otherwise fastened, will come loose under an impact or sudden stop and hurt the child against the dashboard, windshield or windows.

The State Board of Health notes that for an infant a sturdy basket or small crib can be installed in the back seat and securely fastened to the car structure. It is desirable to have the child's car seat placed over the child's right knee and pelvic area) to keep the infant from falling out in the event of a crash.

"Certainly, reduced speed is the first and most important rule, but you must stay alert to other situations which might develop while driving in rain, smoke, fog, strong winds or other adverse conditions," said Kirkman.

The veteran Patrol Commander pointed out that when drivers reduce speed in bad weather, there is usually congestion. It was recommended that following distances be increased during these times to avoid rear end collisions.

"Let the conditions dictate your speed. Don't allow the deadly equation to subtract you from life," Kirkman concluded.

The free concert is being sponsored by the Armed Forces League, 3220th U.S. Army Garrison under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Jerome J. Gillis, who is assisted by Master Sergeant Lawrence S. Viola.

The band provides a wide variety of musical entertainment.

The band is best known for its marching performances under the leadership of its drum major, Sergeant First Class Willis L. Lemon. It was the first Army band to use British Mace style of drum majoring, complete with heraldic equipment.

In addition to displaying this martial musicianship, however, the Third Army Band performs with the highest professional competence in several other ways.

Organized on August 1, 1947, the musical group was officially named the Third Army Band in 1948 when Fort McPherson, Ga. where the band is stationed, became Third US Army Headquarters. Fort McPherson is located in Atlanta, Ga.

A high-rated 60 piece concert band performs old masterpieces as well as contemporary works in the manner unique to a military band. Its performances are reminiscent of those of John Philip Sousa's band — over 50 years ago.

Smaller units composed of Third Army Band musicians include a stage band and dance orchestra which performs on a par with the big bands of yesterday, but does so with a modern beat. Other musical capabilities of the organization include modern jazz and country-western music played by small combos.

The band and its various component organizations frequently represent the Third US Army in the civilian community by participating in ceremonies, parades, concerts, exhibits, festivals, celebrations, and radio-television shows.

YOUR MONEY

By Richard A. Posen

How many times have you said or heard someone say, "I can't seem to save anything." Living costs are high, and they just seem to eat up our earnings. Experienced financial counselors have some expert advice on this matter of not being able to save. Human psychology enters into the picture. There's always a need for money in your pocket (or checking account). This doesn't mean that you're wasting money and being extravagant. You can spend sensibly and still use up all the cash available.

So then how do you save? The answer is that you must save BEFORE you pay your living expenses, not after. If you plan to save what's left over at the end of the month, generally you'll find there's nothing left. The answer is to put your savings aside first—then learn to live on what remains. It's surprising how many people find that they can live on $25 or $30 less per month, providing they put away in savings or in your wallet.

Start this savings-first plan today. Open an account with us this week, however small the amount. It will add up fast.

Sometimes a cup of coffee is 25¢, then again it will be 55¢. Coca Cola is the same. Coffee is served at breakfast time, but you have to buy it the other two meals if you want it. Our first evening in Lucerne, we went to a group to see some fondue and eat cheese fondue dinner and entertainment. You take a cube of bread on forks and dip into the hot cheese mixture. The proprietor welcomed us and told us that if any lady dropped her bread in the fondue she would have to kiss all the men. Soon there was much gaily and laughter at the next table and we saw a woman kissing every man at the table. She seemed to be enjoying it immensely. We had some good entertainment by Swiss people in native costume. One of the men played a tune on a long Swiss horn that looked like a pipe. Then they played about two dozen typical American tunes, among them were "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," "California," and "East Side, West Side." Lucerne seemed to be a favorite with everyone. It is right on a lake with mountains all around and beautiful chalets in bloom.

Switzerland has an area of 16,000 square feet, and the Alps occupy 50 per cent of this. Belgium and Holland are smaller than Switzerland. Farming and cattle are the chief industry. They export cheese, but in Switzerland there is a surplus of milk. Swiss chocolate is famous and we ate candy on the bus off and on all day long.

Driving south we arrive at a tiny mountain town called Lucerne. There are 11 villages and 22 policemen and a jail with rooms in it. There are 20,000 people in this country and 19,000 cows. Baron von Faltz-Beard boarded the bus and gave us a wonderful speech. He had charge of the world famous wedding of the 22-year-old son of Prince Francis of Vienna last year. There were 10,000 guests at the wedding and 50,000 tourists. They celebrated 48 hours without stopping. This wedding was on TV all over the world. The Baron has been in the United States and the United States and the United States and the United States.

Joseph H. to Countess Kinsky of Vienna last year. There were 10,000 guests at the wedding and 50,000 tourists. They celebrated 48 hours without stopping. This wedding was on TV all over the world. The Baron has been in the United States and the United States and the United States and the United States.

Now we are going through the Swiss Alps. We can see the snow line half way up the mountains. The tall pines are covered with snow and look grey-green in the distance. Soon we are driving in a snowstorm—what a thrill! Everything in sight is white with snow. At our first rest stop, most of us were out in the snow taking pictures. The houses dotted up the mountain sides seem so far away and we all are wondering how the people make a living. Our guide, Jerry, is from Austria and has been telling us for days how wonderful it was. There are 7,000,000 people in Austria, and German is spoken here. In 1956 she gained her independence after being occupied by France, Germany, and England, since the war. This is the only country Germany has ever ruled once occupying it. Austria has nice provinces and a very 1.7 of its original size. It is a very religious country and we see many wayside shrines. There was a Crucifix in our restaurant and we see them frequently. Instead of one or four clocks in the church steeple, as we have been noticing all through this part of Europe, they use a round "onion tower" on the churches, making them resemble a Mouster. There are no Hippies allowed in Austria. Jerry told us he would give us a nice gift for every mini-kirt we saw. (In London we saw enough mini-skirts to last us forever.) There are many ski-lifts and buildings with the "Z" mark, meaning rooms to rent. This part of the country is noted famous skiers. There are many ski-schools here. The glare of the sun on the snow can burn a person in a very short time.

Put Majority Rule Back In Government - Register Your Vote!

Tallahassee — Secretary of State Tom Adams issued a challenge today to Florida's hundreds of civic and fraternal organizations to join with him in a statewide campaign to help destroy the growing trend of voter apathy in the State.

"As the State's chief election officer," Adams said, "I call on all civic and fraternal organizations in Florida to join with me in an intensive six-week voter registration drive beginning August 26. With your help we can undertake the greatest War on Voter Apathy ever conducted in this State."

Adams announced plans for the massive voter registration drive last week.

To be called "V.O.T.E.", the campaign will be coordinated by the Office of Secretary of State and the Southern Political Education Action Committee — a non-profit, non-partisan, tax-exempt foundation whose purpose is to encourage voter education and voter participation.

The letters of V.O.T.E. stand for Voter Orientation Training and Education.

Adams said the drive has been prompted by the fact that the voter turnout in the last primary elections was the lowest in history. Only 44 percent of registered Democrats and 41 percent of registered Republicans went to the polls.

"As a result, the Democratic nominee for United States Senate was chosen by only 12 percent of our eligible voters and the Republican nominee by only 6 percent. This amounts to a license to ignore the will of the people by minority — government by default."

"This display of voter apathy is shocking. And it is ironic, especially in these days when it seems to be so fashionable to express political conviction with a bullet instead of a ballot — when many people who commit the deadliest abuses assault

Trailside Signs Unlock Secrets

Time was when you could identify a tourist by the batch of guidebooks clutched in his hands. Not so today in Everglades National Park, where unobtrusive and informative trailside signs take the guesswork out of the region's subterranean vegetation, and leave hands free for cameras and binoculars. True, devoted botanists might care to check a checklist or two handy signs, but for the average sight-seer, the strategically placed signs go a long way in describing the distinctive flora of the South Florida wildlife sanctuary.

A case in point is at Mahogany Hammock — a boardwalk trail located about 18.5 miles from Flamingo, the major vacation complex in the 1.4 million acre park. The word "hammock," says one sign, means an island of vegetation surrounded by slightly lower terrain. In the name, it points out, is a derivation of a Spanish word for "natural garden place."

The largest mahogany trees in the continental United States, here, together with a profusion of orchids, air plants, ferns and other vegetation, signs every few yards along the elevated trail lead about the sear, tell, butternut orchid, stanger tree and cabbage palm — all growing nearby, one of the small metal signs on the walkway observes that, hammocks such as this are the favorite habitats of the barred owl — with its call that sounds like "who cooks for you?"

Just seven miles away, the Pay-day-oke Overlook has its share of special signs, including the visitor stands here and looks out over a vast and seemingly endless prairie of forbidding sawgrass, he sees scores of trees in the landscape. These, a sign reveals, are bay-hammocks, low, rounded mounds much overgrown with vines. In contrast to the hammocks, bay-hammocks feature relatively few trees. The taller ones usually stand in the center of these clumps, and they are the islands a characteristic dome-shaped appearance. Bay-hammocks have a "drier" center, and frequently, well-defined trails extend from one to another.

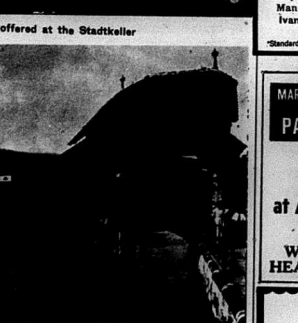

All along the main park road, and at the self-guiding trails, visitors will come upon signs ranging from simple plaques to elaborate glass-encased displays. As signposts drive into the Flamingo recreation facilities on Florida Bay, diminutive signs on both sides of the well-paved highway much evidence, identifying the unusual

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMER

From Mrs. Floyd Booker, Seaside, Kentucky: I don't suppose you would call me an Old Timer, but I am a grandmother several times.

I remember so many things about my childhood that it's hard to choose what stands out the most in my mind.

I attended the one-room country school heated by a large coal stove in the middle of the room. Water was carried over a spring a mile away. We had spelling bees and arithmetic matches on Friday afternoons.

I remember my father's country store. Everything came in bulk form and had to be weighed for sale. Customers brought in eggs, chickens, wool, sorghum, all kinds of roots, walnuts and furs to sell or trade for groceries. The keroceros barrel was a necessity as everyone used keroceros for their lamps.

I can remember going to my grandmother's at Thanksgiving and Christmas on a sled when snow was too deep to travel by automobile. Water was carried from a cave in buckets, for drinking and for cooking. It was the coldest - and best - water I have ever tasted. Climbing over the hay in the barn loft in search of hen's nests was a great thrill.

Wrestling This Week At Armory

Latin-Demons clash in revenge match. Negro wrestler on Belle Glade Armory Wrestling ticket, Friday night.

Latin Alex Medina and Miguel Perez clash in a revenge Tag Team match against the treacherous Blue Demons. Promoter Pat O'Hara will search the Demons in the ring and they must stay in the ring between falls.

Last Friday night the Demons "busted Medina's head open" in a rough and bloody battle, said O'Hara. Medina now seeks revenge against the Demons.

In other wrestling action this Friday, Don Serrano of Puerto Rico goes against the rugged Tim Dalton and Negro wrestler. Tim Jones takes on the rough and strutting Jack Rico.

ITEM: Before visiting, remove the hardware from doors and cabinets and loosen wall or ceiling electric fixtures. This way you don't have to slow down pulling to avoid getting mowers on the metal.
